

Investigating African American Family History

Tuesday, June 11, 2019 from 6-8pm at The Power House, Rocky Mount Mills

Want to research your family history? Are you encountering challenges along the way and seek different avenues for exploration?

The Community Histories Workshop at UNC-Chapel Hill presents a panel of expert speakers who can steer you in the right direction. Genealogy, especially African American genealogy, can be frustrating and difficult so it is our aim to highlight some of the resources and methods out there for recovering your family's past. Join us for an evening that celebrates historical inquiry and family!

Doors open at 5:45pm. Food and drinks provided.

Questions? Contact communityhistories@unc.edu

